EXECUTIVE INSPECTOR GENERAL

December 15, 2006

Dear John Bambenek:

As you should know, the State Officials and Employees Ethics Act (5 ILCS 430/5-10) requires state employees to complete ethics training on at least an annual basis. To meet that requirement, you were recently asked to participate in the 2006 Ethics Training for University and Community College Employees by means of an interactive, Internet-based program hosted at: www.etcc.illinois.gov.

Our records for your online training activity indicate that you apparently spent only 8.78 minutes in reviewing the program's training materials prior to completing its review quiz. Contrary to instructions, you appear to have failed to carefully read and review the subject matter contained in the program's Introduction and three Lessons, and therefore you have not appropriately complied with the training as required by law. Your Certificate of Completion and record of compliance have therefore been invalidated.

You must complete the enclosed ethics training program and return its Certification form (last page of the program), bearing your signature, to your Ethics Officer no later than February 2, 2007. Your failure to complete this additional training on a timely basis, as well as any future failure to properly comply with this annual training requirement, will result in disciplinary action, up to including termination of state employment.

If you have any questions concerning this matter, please contact your Ethics Officer:
